

Chaboo was designed with the intention of creating an affordable piece of furniture made of high quality materials that is also attractive, simple, and highly versatile. The body is made out of solid bamboo ply with various materials available to create the insert area. The design encourages the Chaboo user to assert his or her own creative agency in utilizing the piece to its fullest potential. 12.5”h x 14”w x 32”l

Project Chaboo emerged from a desire to build community and collaboration between artists, designers and consumers. Artists and designers have been invited to customize a Chaboo with their signature style. They work with a diverse range of mediums and techniques, including painting (watercolor, acrylic, oil), illustration (ink, digital), silkscreen, vinyl paint mask, metal, wood, felt, laser, glass, concrete, recycled skateboards, fiberglass, and bamboo.

Some of these artists are working directly with finished Chaboo pieces while others have chosen to reinterpret the design using their own process and materials. Project Chaboo is about inspiring and challenging the collaborators to integrate their own medium and signature style into the Chaboo design. The artists have no formal guidelines in this project, but are encouraged to exercise respect for the design and concept of the Chaboo.

Ultimately, the goal of Project Chaboo is for each artists' personal voice to shine through while maintaining the honesty of the original design. The project will build a creative network of artists and designers that nourishes both personal expression and community inspired collaboration.
